

NATURE'S PROVEN RELIEF FOR Inflammation

Availability

Q-O-Fire from Myti-Herbs is widely available at natural health centers. For more information or to find a retailer near you, contact Magi-Herbs/Myti-Herbs at 800-421-3254 or visit www.magitherbs.com.

Comment by Myti-Herb

Q-O-Fire is a dietary supplement, thus it is not disease-specific; however, it does relieve many inflammations. Many kinds of inflammation that are not readily cured by antibiotics or other drugs can be relieved by promoting the body fluids to quell the inflammation/heat or internal fire caused by virus infections like the common cold, influenza, hives, inflammation of unknown cause, AIDS, lupus (SLE), etc. In other words, Q-O-Fire promotes the body's self-healing capabilities to relieve the inflammation.

(These statements have not been evaluated by the FDA. This product is not intended to diagnose, treat, cure or prevent any disease.)

Inflammation is a basic way in which the body reacts to infection, irritation or other injury. Inflammation is a type of immune response; it is not a disease, but it is associated with many diseases. In fact, any disease with the suffix "itis" means inflammation. Inflammations are usually treated with antibiotics/drugs according to the particular condition. However, there are types of inflammation for which no cure is available (e.g., AIDS inflammation). There are also cases in which some symptoms of inflammation persist even after the infection has been resolved through antibiotics or other drugs. This can be caused by scars, cellular debris, toxins from the infection-drug interaction, and viral or autoimmune problems. Western medications may not be effective in relieving all symptoms of inflammation, such as with inflammation due to aging, Sjogren's syndrome (dry eye and mouth), herpes, lupus, shingles or hay fever.

Inflammation has five characteristics: pain, swelling, redness, heat and organ dysfunction in the effected area. The symptoms of chronic inflammation are similar but can exist for a prolonged period without relief.

In traditional Chinese medicine (TCM) theory, pain, swelling, redness and heat can all be considered results of overexcited (hyper) qi, or bodily fire, in the body systems. Being low in yin-fluid, called bodily water, and high in bodily fire is indicated by a lack of body fluids or by immune-function deficiencies. The TCM way to tackle these problems is to balance the bodily fire and bodily water by improving body fluid production (i.e., anti-aging) and enhancing immune function. The body itself can then repair the scars, flush out the debris or toxins and quell the heat, thus relieving the symptoms. In China, the basic formulas that make up Q-O-Fire were proven over the years to relieve most symptoms of inflammation, except in cases of organ dysfunction or with certain allergic conditions. (However, symptoms labeled "allergic" are often only inflammation caused by the bodily fire and bodily water imbalance, and therefore can be easily relieved by Q-O-Fire.) Q-O-Fire has no known side effects.

Q-O-Fire consists of 37 natural herbs, which you can learn more about by visiting www.magitherbs.com. These natural herbs work synergistically to supplement the body's fluid production, thus also relieving dryness in the body, eyes or mouth; to improve the immune system; and to clean out the toxins and cellular debris. The actions can help to relieve the symptoms of inflammation.

Inflammation that has not responded to antibiotic treatment often may be related to an imbalance of bodily fire and bodily water. One natural way to restore this balance quickly is through using supplements such as Q-O-Fire.

CASE REPORTS

Maddy S.* writes... "Q-O-Fire is the answer to all my prayers. I have suffered with bursitis in my muscles for 15 years—the inflammation of tiny fluid-filled sacs that help muscles and tendons slide across bone. I've seen doctors, chiropractors, massage therapists and acupuncturists to get rid of my inflammation—nothing worked. My muscles were so stiff and sore I didn't even want to get out of bed in the morning, and walking was getting so bad that I became housebound and almost settled for the wheelchair. But I just wasn't ready to give up! And then my daughter found Q-O-Fire. 'Mom, this is for you,' she said. What can I say other than thank God for my daughter and Q-O-Fire. I am forever grateful!"

Julie L.* writes... "My problems began with an insect bite on my left shoulder, which developed into itchy rashes. Following soon after, my right parotid gland began to swell painfully, and I had a slight fever.

"My doctor diagnosed me with mumps, a viral illness, which other than time and supportive treatments, such as drinking lots of water and taking painkillers, has no cure.

"I tried Tylenol, but it did not help. Gradually, I developed flu-like symptoms, including a headache and head heaviness, sore throat, clear nasal mucus, fever, cough, tiredness, body and joint pains and some diarrhea. Although all of these symptoms were pretty mild, they persisted for about five days. I took antibiotics, but they didn't help either.

"Later, while searching for other treatments online, I found Q-O-Fire. After taking it for three days, most of my symptoms disappeared. I have found that taking heavy doses (three caps per four hours) of Q-O-Fire can relieve most symptoms of unidentified inflammation faster than other over-the-counter drugs or supplements.

"Thank you Magi-Herbs!"

Last name withheld to protect privacy.*